

The New York Times

March 12, 2010

WEEKEND Arts MOVIES PERFORMANCES

---

THE Listings

---

DOVEMAN (Thursday) Doveman is the alias of the pianist and composer Thomas Bartlett, who is most famous for his collaborations with better-known indie-rock bands (Grizzly Bear, Antony and the Johnsons, the National). They're lucky to have him; his solo work is hushed, reverent and mesmerizing. Mr. Bartlett will be performing, first, with the composer and multi-instrumentalist Nico Muhly (as the duo Peter Pears), and he will then play a solo set, with a few special guests, of songs from his latest record, "The Conformist" (Brassland). At 8 p.m., the Kitchen, 512 West 19th Street, Chelsea, (212) 255-5793, thekitchen.org; $15. (Petrusich)