MUSIC

TONA SCHERCHEN-HSIAO

Tona Scherchen-Hsiao is perhaps in a unique position among new music composers of the present period. A student of classical Chinese music as well as of classical Western music, she has composed works for a wide range of media, including orchestral works and compositions for tape—works subtly reflecting her rich bicultural heritage. The work on her program for The Kitchen Center, Between, is considered as the premiere of the musical section of a projected multi-media work.

Performing the work will be Robert Dick, flutes; James Emery, guitar; Mark Helias, bass; George Lewis, trombone; and J.D. Parran, woodwinds.

March 13 8:30pm $4.00/$2.50/TDF

ETHNIC HERITAGE ENSEMBLE

The music of the Ethnic Heritage Ensemble blends aspects of traditional African music (as well as other non-Western forms), the common experience of its members, and the structures of contemporary African-American music. The diverse backgrounds of the Ensemble's members, who come from the Chicago-based Association for the Advancement of Creative Musicians, include the study of classical Western music, as well as the disciplines of drum-making and naturopathy.

The unique instrumentation of the Ethnic Heritage Ensemble includes saxophones and woodwinds, played by "Light" Henry Huff and Edward Wilkerson, Jr.; and Kahil El'Zabar, congas, log drums, calabash and other percussion instruments.

March 14 8:30pm $4.00/$2.50 members/TDF

FREDERIC RZEWSKI

Frederic Rzewski is one of the finest composers/performers/interpreters of new music in the present period. Mr. Rzewski will perform several works for piano, including his own tightly constructed, yet fluid and protean set of variations on the Chilean song, The People United Will Never Be Defeated (1975) and the 1974 Etudes Australes of John Cage.

March 27 & 28 8:30pm $4.00/$2.50/TDF

PERFORMANCE & FILM

FERN FRIEDMAN, TERRI HANLON, DAVID BEHRMAN, PAUL DE MARINIS

Party!

Let's have a party!

Let's have a donde esta the Donner party . . .

In She's Wild, stories and songs present our version of some historical highlights of the American West. A legend of the American female is reinvented and represented in a clash of genre forms. The Cannibal Cowgirl mixes metaphors with the Fallen Woman amid technology of the Eighties. Performing musician: Anne Klingensmith; Music & Electronic Systems: Paul De Marinis and David Behrman; Stories/Lyrics/Slide Images/Props: Fern Friedman and Terri Hanlon.

March 10 & 11 8:30pm $4.00/$2.50 members/TDF

"AMY" and "CHRISTOPHER STRONG"

AMY, a film by Laura Mulvey and Peter Wollen, is a portrait of Amy Johnson, the English aviator who flew solo from London to Australia in 1930. What was the crowd cheering and why? AMY wonders whether we need heroines and what are the political and psychological pressures which create them. But at the same time it celebrates Amy's epic solo flight, not as the exemplary act of a role model, but as the realization of the irrepressible desire of one woman's unconscious. (30 min, color, sound, 1980)

Dorothy Arzner's Christopher Strong is also the story of an English woman flyer (loosely based on the life of Amy Johnson) played by Katherine Hepburn. She is torn calamitously between love and flying. (77 min, B/W, sound, 1933)

This program was organized by Bette Gordon. Discussion will follow.
March 18 8:30pm Admission $3.00

STUART SHERMAN

Retrospective: Four performances

Program One (Solo Work): Selections from the first 12 Spectacles (1975-80), plus a preview of the 13th Spectacle (Time).
