How to Fly: Ed Bowes's loosely connected reality-twisting stories play on television conventions of form and function. Incidents include girls cruising, some kinky doings with cockroaches, an elegant derelict's conversation with a rat and flying lessons. If you thought the characters in Flamingo Road weren't strange enough, Bowes's creations just might carve a bigger place in your memory. February 1, 8:30 and 10:30, the Kitchen, 484 Broome Street, 925-3615. (Wooster)

MUSIC

Julius Eastman: He says, "I will sing about the concept of God," and his stark performances actually do embody his uncompromising spirituality. He'll also perform an instrumental piece, which I'd expect to be ravishing. January 30 at 8:30, The Kitchen, 484 Broome Street, 925-3615. (Sandow)
