Kathy Acker and Constance De Jong: READING at The Kitchen

ENTRANCE  Please Note: 484 Broome Street

KATHY ACKER is a writer currently living in New York City. Her work "The Childlike Life of the Black Tarantula" is published by the Vanishing Rotating Press. She is in the midst of "The Adult Life of Henri Toulouse Lautrec," a serial which she has been sending out at regular intervals since June, 1975, in an edition of 300.

This Sunday evening Acker will be presenting a new work, "Florida, 1976." This work is based on the play by Maxwell Anderson. The screenplay is by Richard Brooks and Kathy Acker. The cast will include Lauren Bacall, Lionel Barrymore, Humphrey Bogart, Thomas Gomez, Edward G. Robinson and Claire Trevor. Humphrey Bogart is a war veteran who finds himself in an isolate hotel taken over by Robinson and his gang.

CONSTANCE DE JONG will present her current work in a program which will include live reading and pre-recorded material.

A serial of five books, the first in a continuing series entitled "The Complete Works of Constance De Jong," are being distributed through the mail between August, 1975, and March, 1976. This first serial is being published in an edition of 500.
