OUT & ABOUT BOMB ALERT: WEEKEND ENCORE by Alec Meacham Sep 09, 2011

This week's post-Labor Day BOMB Alert features classical performances, art premieres, politico-cultural discussions, and an important day of remembrance.

FRIDAY

Celebrate Elizabeth Murray and her contributions to the art world (and what would have been her 71st birthday) with the Bowery's dedication of the Elizabeth Murray Art Wall. Also catch the screening for the trailer of "Elizabeth Murray: Everybody Knows," Kristi Zea's forthcoming film.

Rhys Chatham, presenting for The Kitchen's series, "Pioneers of the Downtown Sound," concocts a melange of 1970's classical pieces, including the music of Tony Conrad, Pauline Oliveros, and Joan La Barbara.
