MUSIC

"BEFORE AND AFTER AMBIENT":

Almost two decades after its official invention by Brian Eno, ambient music has become a growth industry, and curator Ben Neill is getting the Kitchen (whose music programming is great lately, no matter what anyone says) in on the ground floor. Pop artists like Future Sound of London and DJ Spooky may or may not blend nicely with new-music experimentalists like Bill Laswell and Christian Marclay. The two concerts will be simultaneously presented online in Santa Monica (on the 4th) and London (the 5th). November 4 and 5 at 9, the Kitchen, 512 West 19th Street, 255-5793. (Gann)
