

NEW YORK POST

December 7, 2012

pulseweekend

POST INSIDERS TELL YOU WHERE TO GO!

HOT PICKS

DON'T MISS!

LET FREEDOM Ring

It could be a clothes call for Adrienne Truscott.

ADRIENNE Truscott has always worn many hats professionally. "My first job, at 9, was as a fly swatter. I'm not kidding," she insists. After that came stints as a parking lot attendant, waitress, bartender, stripper and finally choreographer, performance artist and one half of the outrageous burlesque and acrobatic act the Wau Wau Sisters.

She's trading in her trapeze and wearing her performance-artist hat tomorrow at The Kitchen, presenting "... Too Freedom ..." an evening celebrating the odd ways artists cobble together a living.

Even as a highbrow performance artist, Truscott is still an entertainer. "Will there be humor? Yes. Is there ever not? No." And though it's not yet certain, she says, "There's a good chance somebody will be naked. I always find an excuse."

8 p.m. at 512 W. 19th St.; 212-255-5793, thekitchen.org; $15; through Dec. 15. — Leigh Witchel